Location

Middletown is a peaceful village located on the Shropshire/Powys border, ideally positioned just 6 miles from Welshpool and 10 miles from Shrewsbury. The village offers a tranquil rural lifestyle with excellent access to both Welsh and English towns. At the heart of Middletown is a welcoming community, centred around its Village Hall, local public house, and traditional church. These local amenities support a friendly, close-knit atmosphere while offering space for social events and activities. Surrounded by natural beauty, the area is perfect for outdoor enthusiasts. Breidden Hill, just a short distance away, offering panoramic views and historical interest. The local landscape is ideal for walking, birdwatching, and exploring Mid Wales' rich heritage. Despite its rural charm, Middletown is well-connected via regular transport links (via train and bus) to both Welshpool and Shrewsbury, making it convenient for commuting, shopping, dining, and access to a range of services and attractions. Nearby Welshpool boasts highlights such as the magnificent Powys Castle and its stunning parkland, along with independent shops, cafes, and leisure activities. Middletown offers the perfect balance of countryside living with practical access to urban amenities — a fantastic base from which to enjoy the best of Mid Wales and the border counties.
